Forever float that standard sheet!
Where breathes the foe but falls before us?
With Freedom's soul beneath our feet,
And Freedom's banner streaming o'er us!

Is It Returning Reason?

A telegram from Washington informs us that the citizens of Gallatin, Tenn., have held a public meeting, expressed their willingness to return to their allegiance, and ask for the establishment of a post-office. If this demonstration means loyalty to the government and hostility, without qualification, to the rebels, the sign is favorable; but if the citizens of Gallatin only want a post-office, and a quasi rebel for postmaster, their professions of loyalty will not amount to much.

The recognized line between traitors and loyal men is extremely vague and uncertain in Tennessee, under the mild rule of the federal generals. It was but the other day that an election for county officers took place, with the consent of our military authority, in the county in which Nashville is situated, under the confederate constitution! That is toleration for you. The mayor of Nashville is an avowed traitor, and a member of the Tennessee legislature which has been passing laws to aid Jeff. Davis to overthrow the United States government. Here is more toleration. He is now at the head of the police of Nashville, and in a position to give all necessary aid to traitors in the city and outside of it; and, no doubt, he has every disposition to thwart federal authority and promote the designs of the confederates. Confederate soldiers have been found concealed in the houses of wealthy citizens of Nashville, as well as in the vicinity, ready when opportunity occurs, to murder our pickets. When we hear such accounts of our military administration in Tennessee, we shall not be surprised to learn that the secessionists take advantage of it, and by a cheap profession of loyalty, obtain favors where none should be granted, except to truly loyal men.

Gov. Andrew Johnson has arrived at Nashville, and has delivered an address to the people, which is full of patriotic sentiment. He declared that "Traitors shall be punished and treason crushed. He came with no hostility or animosity in his heart; he came for the defense of the weak, the restoration of the erring, the punishment of the guilty, the re-establishment of the Union and constitution in Tennessee. "Come, my countrymen," he exclaimed, "let us gather around the old and lovely flag with one heart and soul, reading upon its folds the hallowed words of Webster: 'Liberty and Union, one and inseparable, now and forever.'"

We are quite sure that the interests of Tennessee will be safe in the hands of Andrew Johnson. He will know who are true and who are false in their professions, and how to punish traitors, crush treason and restore the erring. His authority, if he exercises any, must be military, and not derived from any thing found in our written constitution; but whether the President calls it a provisional government, or whether congress shall entitle it a territorial government, we are content, so that Liberty, union and peace shall be promoted. The sooner Gov. Johnson takes the place of the present apology for a government, the better for the Union cause.

The Milwaukee News says that the south fears that the laws will not be impartially administered, and that "this fear is not unfounded." This is the justification or excuse which it offers for the rebels. There is no truth in this statement whatever. The leaders of the rebellion who have spoken for their followers, have never put forth any excuse of that kind, and if they had it has no foundation in fact. It is on record that they intended to dissolve the Union that they might erect, as the Charleston Mercury said, a "great preponderating republic of the slaveholding states," and tauntingly added, "can they help themselves? We shall see." This was said two months before Mr. Lincoln was inaugurated. Yes, we shall see, that even with the aid of many northern traitors, continually and insidiously at work for them, they cannot do it. It was not that they had fears, but that ambition led them to hope for the establishment of a splendid empire whose "chief corner stone should be slavery," that they revolted. So Mr. Stephens of Georgia said, and so they all say. It is left for the northern apologists for rebellion to talk about violations of the constitution by the people who are struggling for its maintenance against rebels who scorn the constitution and the laws, and trample the flag of the nation under their feet.

The rebels are concentrating at Corinth, Miss., and Decatur, Ala., at the latter place in large numbers, estimated at 40,000. The officers of a steamboat, just arrived at Cairo from that region, report that it would take a thorough chemical analysis to discover a trace of Unionism in the people thereabouts. Corinth is eighty miles east of Memphis, on the Memphis and Charleston railroad. The rebels have destroyed the bridges and track on this road, between Hartsport and Florence.

Independence in thought and action is a luxury far beyond the reach of poor folks.

Island No. 10.
Instead of the reported surrender of Island No. 10 being true, the rebels are more firmly fortified there than at Columbus. Our fleet, under Com. Foote, went down from Hickman on Saturday last. It consisted of eight gunboats, ten mortar boats, two ordnance steamers, ten tug boats and two transports—the latter having on board the 27th Illinois, Col. Buford, and the Wisconsin 15th, Col. Heg—our Norwegian regiment.

The fleet being anchored above the island, its surface was discovered to be white with tents on the Missouri side: a long, low craft, supposed to be a floating battery; and on the Tennessee side a whole fleet of steamboats, among which the pilot recognized the Red Rover and another. Above, on the bluff of the Tennessee, was seen another encampment, and a formidable looking battery.

Shells were sent into the enemy's works at a distance of three miles by our mortar boats. These shells weigh two hundred and seventy-two pounds. The St. Louis Democrat thus describes the first experiment with them:

The first shell was thrown by Capt. Manadier, in the direction of the island. The gunboats were covered with their officers and men watching the proceeding. The tow, ammunition and transport fleet were not in sight, but the thundering roar of the report struck upon the ears of officers and men with startling effect. Every eye brightened, and frequent loud exclamations of "that's the way!" were heard. The shell could not be traced and its explosion was not heard. One or two more were fired, when suddenly a sharp report came from the Tennessee side of the river, and straight down the stream, ahead of the gunboats and considerably to the left of the direction of the shell, was seen a cloud of white smoke rising from the shore. The distance was about two miles. In a moment after the shot struck the water about half way towards the island, and a great cloud of white smoke rose from the place. The shell followed by a very formidable rebel battery was deserted and silenced. Afterwards the direction of the mortars was again turned towards the island, and the firing was continued until about five o'clock, thirty-four shells having been thrown altogether. Capt. Manadier casting sixteen and Capt. Pike eighteen in an hour and a half, making an average of about one shell from a single mortar in every five minutes, which, considering the inexperience of the men handling the mortars, is a most gratifying result, and shows the capacity of these formidable guns to be much greater than here before estimated.

A correspondent of the Chicago Journal says:

Sunday, our fleet went down half a mile nearer the island, and engaged the batteries and shelled the woods on the shores. The first shot that was fired from the gunboats on Sunday was in the middle of the afternoon, after we had been firing on them for several hours. Night came on without any satisfactory result, and operations were suspended for the day. There was a flag of truce sent to our flag ship by the enemy on Sunday afternoon, the meaning of which is unknown to "outsiders." It came and went away mysteriously, and that was all that was known of it.

On Monday morning the engagement reopened, some of our troops having in the meantime been landed on the shore, as pickets, and some as regular troops. The first shot that was fired from the gunboats on Monday was in the middle of the afternoon, after we had been firing on them for several hours. Night came on without any satisfactory result, and operations were suspended for the day. There was a flag of truce sent to our flag ship by the enemy on Sunday afternoon, the meaning of which is unknown to "outsiders." It came and went away mysteriously, and that was all that was known of it.

The shore is lined with heavy batteries of heavy guns for miles, at the head of the island, and they probably have heavy defensive works on the island. It may require a number of days to "clean them out," but that they will be routed and probably captured is only a question of hours.

This (Wednesday) morning our fleet was to move further down stream, and engage all the batteries of the enemy, on all sides. Heavy siege guns had arrived from St. Louis on Tuesday, which were to be at once brought into action. Much was expected of them.

Several rebel surgeons, at St. Louis and Chicago, who had paroled upon the sole condition of attending to their own sick, have totally neglected their duties, and have been reported to Gen. Halleck, who will send them to the military prison at Alton. Their conduct is exceedingly disgraceful, and shows to what a demoralized condition this wicked rebellion has reduced its blind adherents.

Gen. Grant has been fully reinstated in his command. He has arrived at Savannah, Tenn., and takes command of the expedition from that point. It is not clearly stated what was the cause of his suspension.

THE GREAT BATTLE OF PEAK RIDGE.

Full Particulars of the Three Days' Fighting.

THE SECOND DAY'S BATTLE.
The enemy, during the night and early in the morning, poured in from the Benton road, and gathered in heavy force in our rear, sweeping round to the right, and occupying both sides of the Keokuk road, a position from which it was absolutely necessary to dislodge them, or surrender all hope of success.

Truly, before the second day's engagement began, the prospect was very dark. Defeat seemed to stare us in the face, and the sole thing possible appeared a struggle to prevent too disastrous a discomfiture. The way to Missouri was defended by 50,000 of the enemy; and we had little more than one-third the number to dispute the perilous passage. On the south were the 10th, 11th, 12th, 13th, 14th, 15th, 16th, 17th, 18th, 19th, 20th, 21st, 22nd, 23rd, 24th, 25th, 26th, 27th, 28th, 29th, 30th, 31st, 32nd, 33rd, 34th, 35th, 36th, 37th, 38th, Opening of Navigation.

The Journal says that the lake is fully open at Chicago, and vessels have already commenced crossing to and from the Michigan shore. The ice above is reported to be giving away. It is believed that lake navigation, "along the whole line," will be fully resumed in the course of a week or two.

Disturbance at Camp Randall.

Reports were current in this city yesterday of a mutiny in the 17th regiment at Camp Randall, and that the 18th had been sent for to come from Milwaukee to quell it. Another report was that Col. Mulligan had been telegraphed at Chicago to be ready there to take charge of the regiment when it should arrive in that city. The Madison papers of yesterday contain the particulars of the mutiny, which was caused by the failure to pay the regiment before it started for St. Louis. Gov. Harvey proceeded to the camp, and his efforts, aided by some of the officers of the regiment and influential citizens of the state, induced a portion of the men to embark in the cars provided for them. A postscript to the Journal's article says:

LATER.—At a little before four o'clock this afternoon the first train of cars, with about half the regiment on board, left the depot. The other train was still at the camp grounds, and it was doubtful whether it would go. Great confusion prevails in camp. Utter subordination exists. Many of the men are reported to be intoxicated, and all is confusion and uproar.

The portion which left Madison arrived here about six o'clock, numbering 347, of whom 15 or 20 deserted. No car windows were broken here, as has been reported. Another detachment of 140 passed through to-day. A force of 200 regulars from Chicago are reported on their way to-day to Madison to quell the remaining mutineers.

The Wilmot Provision for the Territories.

Mr. Ashley of Ohio has reported to the house, from the committee on territories, a bill organizing the territory of Arizona, with the following section:

"That there shall be neither slavery nor involuntary servitude in the said territory, otherwise than in the punishment of crimes, whereof the parties shall have been duly convicted, and that from and after the passage of this act, slavery or involuntary servitude is hereby forever prohibited in all territories now organized; and all acts and parts of acts, either of congress or of any organized territory, establishing, regulating or in any way recognizing the relation of master and slave in any of said territories is hereby repealed."

We hope congress will adopt this section. There is no republican in that body who has not committed himself in favor of the principle which it embodies, in speeches, before election. Now let us have fulfillment of their pledges, and thus banish the fear which is fast possessing the minds of the people that congress has no courage, where slavery is interested.

The Wrong Person.—We are assured that the Brigadier General Shibley, commanding the rebel forces in New Mexico, is not Ex-Governor Shibley, of Minnesota, but is one of the officers of the regular army, and probably a relative of the Ex-Governor. Hence the confusion of the names.

Yes. The bill we noticed yesterday, as passing the assembly under a suspension of the rules, for the relief of the Rock county Agricultural Society, was introduced by Mr. Gurnsey. It appropriates $100 to the Society.

Third Wisconsin Cavalry.

All officers, non-commissioned officers and privates belonging to the above regiment, at present absent on furlough or otherwise, are hereby ordered to report themselves at Camp Barstow before noon on Monday the 24th inst.

By order of the Commandant,

HENRY SANDER,

Adjutant 3d Wis. Cavalry.

Camp Barstow, Janesville, March 21, '62.

State papers please copy.

COXON CORNEL.—There was another enthusiastic meeting of the council last night—the Mayor and Ald. Smith present.

"THE CAMPBELL'S COMING."—The Campbell troupe of minstrels will visit this city the latter part of next week. Particulars hereafter.

MANUFACTURERS OF BONE SHEDS.—Several firms in this city are at present engaged in the manufacture of sheds for the government, and are turning out daily large quantities. After a shell has been finished, many are puzzled to determine, there being but a single little hole in the hollow ball, how the core is taken out. The core is composed of sand and flour, and after being properly moulded and finished, is placed in an oven and baked like a loaf of bread until it becomes hard. The hot metal, when it is poured into the mould, burns the flour out, and the sand crumbles so as to be easily taken out.—Philadelphia Press.

The Ohio river is very high at Cairo, and that beautiful city is likely to be submerged.

Correspondence of the Daily Gazette.

From the Second Regiment.

PORT TILLINGHAM, ARLINGTON, VA., March 17th, 1862.

MESSRS. EDITORS.—When I wrote to you in February we were still idle and waiting for the cheering sound of "onward march," and at last the sweet sound greets our ears. Sunday night, the 9th inst., we rolled into our bunks and strapped our blankets around us as unconscious of making a march the next day as we were of going to Cuba.—The next morning reveille beat at 3 o'clock A. M., and we fell out to roll call. After roll call our captain tells us to pack up our knapsacks and get ready to march at 4 o'clock. Now all was excitement and joy. We did not know of a certainty where we were going, but as all the camps around us were illumined, we concluded that the time for the advance of the grand army of the Potomac had come, and expected of course that we were going to visit the strong hold of the rebels. At the appointed time we fell into ranks, bid good bye to old Camp Tillingham and moved off in the direction of Centerville and Manassas.

When we started such expressions as, "Forward to Richmond!" hurrah, boys for Manassas!" could be heard from many of the Second. We felt that the time had now come when it was for us to settle the question of secession, on the decisive battle field.

As we marched along, we found the roads crowded with cavalry and artillery, as well as infantry. Officers rode furiously over the roads, cavalry went dashing along as though they were just going to make a charge; and all was action as well as motion. Early in the forepart of the day it rained a little, which made it rather slippery walking; but notwithstanding this we made good time, considering that we had heavy knapsacks on our backs. On the march we used to halt once in three or four miles and rest for a few minutes. We marched through Fairfax to a hill about two miles beyond, where we stopped and camped, after having marched a distance of 20 miles. We found that the campaign tents come in play now. These tents are six feet square and three feet high. They are fixed so they can be taken apart and each man carries half a tent strapped on his knapsack.—

When we got here it was rumored that the rebels had left Centerville, but we could hardly credit any such report as this, because we were informed they were strongly fortified at this place, and we could not believe they would fall back without first giving battle.

In the morning we received reliable information that the rebels had not only left Centerville, but had evacuated Manassas also. We were greatly surprised when we learned this fact, for we were quite sure they would make a desperate struggle upon the field where they were once flushed with victory.

We had expected to meet the rebels face to face at Manassas and whip them badly, but they are getting so expert in their new tactics, introduced by Floyd and Pillow, that it is a matter yet to be tried whether we get a chance to come at them with cold steel or not. They do not seem to like the way our troops fight lately; for, of late, the Union troops have fought to kill.

We staid at the camp near Fairfax until the morning of the 15th. The rebel pickets, until the advance, extended out from their front as far as Fairfax; but no rebel pickets were to be seen now. There were several families that had lived here unmolested by secession, and at the same time rebel soldiers all around them; but, of course, the families are strong for the Union now. The surrounding circumstances are such that they could not well be otherwise. (Bear in mind, the surrounding circumstances are Union troops.) While here our boys got out of rations, in consequence of the provision wagons not arriving in time, and the result was several fowls were brought into camp, bought without money or price. There are strict orders against forging or taking anything from peaceable citizens, but it was tolerated at this time because we were out of rations.

I learned while at this camp that the guns at which the secession had at Centerville were only wooden logs. I get this information from those who were in Centerville after the rebels left it, and saw the fortifications. Whether these wooden guns have been there all the time, or only placed in the parapet while their cannons were removed, is something yet to be known.

On the 12th, Lieut. Rollins, of company H, went out to Bull Run and rode over the ground which was strewn with dead bodies on the 21st of July. He could now ride over the ground without having shot, and shell thrown around him; but what must have been his sensations when he saw the graves where many of his comrades in battle now slept to wake no more until the resurrection morn.

The night previous to the 15th, we received orders to march the next day. The report was that we were going to Alexandria, and aboard of boats, down the Potomac, and land some where on the Rappahannock. This just suited us, and in the morning every man was up before the drums beat, ready for the march.

It was about 12 o'clock when we left our camp and took a retrograde movement for Alexandria. We had the advantage of a good turnpike road to march on; but soon after we started it commenced to rain very hard, and rained all the afternoon; but I believe I never saw a time when the old Second felt better than they did when on the march. As the country is hilly here, the rain would run down into the ravines, and where these crossed the road the water was from eight to ten inches deep, and as many of us wore shoes we had wet feet, of course. We got within three miles of Alexandria before dark, having marched 35 miles. I learned that a bridge had been carried off, which was over a small stream about of us, and that we could go no further until it was fixed. We therefore stopped here and pitched our tents on a hill situated in the woods. As we were wet through, and the ground, also, being wet, the first thing we looked after when we broke ranks, was something to keep us off from the wet soil of Virginia. There was a residence near by, the owner of which had some board fence on his plantation, and a wheat stack; but he didn't have said loose property long, for the boys of the Second are bound to have a dry place on which to sleep, whenever they can get it. After we got things arranged to suit us, we built up large fires and dried our clothes, and in the morning we were all right.

We expected in the morning to go to Alexandria and take passage on the boats, immediately, down the Potomac, and we were rather unhappily disappointed when we got orders to go back to our old camp Tillingham; but we were contented when we learned that we were not going to stay only a day or two before we would have a chance to move upon the rebels. We reached our old camp in the afternoon, after having been gone six days. The march, though fatiguing, I believe was of benefit to the regiment. I believe the regiment is in better condition for doing service than they were before they left on the 10th inst. What we want is action, and we are glad the hour for action has come.

I have now related to you what one regiment has been doing the past week. Other regiments, brigades and divisions have been doing the same that we have: in fact, the whole army of the Potomac has been on the move. It is reported now that McDowell's command, which comprises about 40,000, is going down the Potomac on transports and land on or near the Rappahannock, to attack the rebels wherever they may make a stand.

One more word, and I close. Gen. McClellan's address to the army is received with the greatest enthusiasm by the soldiers. They put the utmost confidence in him and believe him to be a true man, and one whom they are willing to follow every time. He says "The time for inaction has passed." This pleases us. He promises to lead us on to meet the enemy, and only prays that God may defend the right. This is the kind of talk that suits a soldier of the army of the Potomac.

Inclosed find twenty-five cents (25) for which send you a box of "Cephalic Pills." Send to address of Rev. Wm.

Phillips, Cambridge, Franklin Co., Ohio.

Your Pills work like a charm—cure Headache at once.

Truly yours,

WM. O. FILLIAM.

Ypsilanti, Mich., Jan. 11, 1861.

Mr. Spalding,

Not long since I sent you for a box of Cephalic Pills for the cure of the Nervous Headache and Constipation, and received the same, and they had to good effect on me. I have used them since, and find them to be excellent.

Please send by return mail. Direct to

A. R. WILKES, Ypsilanti, Mich.

From the Examiner, Norfolk, Va.

Cephalic Pills accomplish the object for which they were made, viz: cure of headache in all its forms.

From the Examiner, Norfolk, Va.

They have been tested in more than a thousand cases, with entire success.

As certain unprincipled persons are attempting to claim for the unprincipled public imitations of my

CEPHALIC PILLS, I have to request that you will be careful before purchasing, and see that the full name of HENRY C. SPALDING is on the wrapper, and that the words "SPALDING'S PREPARED GLUE" are on the wrapper, and that the words "SPALDING'S PREPARED

GLUE" are on the wrapper, and that the words "SPALDING'S
